A BETTER MINERAL MAKEUP

Until now, minerals and midlife skin didn't mix: The powdery formulas settled into and accentuated lines and pores (a drag, because natural minerals are a safe bet for sensitive skin). However, the newest minerals may make this criticism obsolete. More hydrating and in creamier bases than their predecessors, these formulas are less apt to cake. Try:

Smashbox Halo Hydrating Perfecting Powder
/$59; SMASHBOX.COM / Gives a sheer, almost dewy finish, rather than the powdered-doughnut look of old-school minerals.

Vapour Aura Blush
/$28; VAPOUR BEAUTY.COM / Thanks to hydrating plant oils, adds a subtle glow to even the driest skin. Comes in three shades.

Philosophy Supernatural Superbeautiful Makeup SPF20 / $30; PHILOSOPHY.COM / This water-based liquid provides a bit more coverage than a tinted moisturizer.

3 FAVORITES OF FRAGRANCE FANATICS

Looking for a scent that's sophisticated, memorable—and unlikely to be worn by anyone you know? Check out these choices of beauty insiders.

- > KAI EAU DE PARFUM $72; shopdreamy.com
- > JULIET BY JULIET STEWART $125; julietperfume.com
- > BY KILIAN PRELUDE TO LOVE $225; bykilian.com

EYE TREATMENTS LIGHTEN UP

If eye creams seep into and irritate your eyes—or migrate to your cheeks and cause breakouts—you might want to try an eye serum instead. Far lighter and more easily absorbed, they're a godsend for contact lens wearers and those of us who still battle acne. Some of our favorites: ReVive Les Yeux Pressé ($175; neimanmarcus.com), Dr. Brandt Time Arrest Eye Serum ($85; sephora.com) or Neutrogena Ageless Restoratives Instant Eye Reviver ($20; drugstores).
